Science Does It

Science, we all know, devised the wireless and built the airplane. Science won the war. Science now is making bread for you. This bread is MERIT.

Science applied to baking bread does not mean a cloud of mystery. It does not mean the making of a doubtful something to pass for the real "staff of life." It simply means the bettering of bread by gaining a full understanding of the whys and wherefores of the goodness of good bread and showing how to eliminate the avils which prevents its uniform purity. Science shows what methods are best for making a superior product. The goodness of taste, the purity and perfect nourishing qualities of MERIT are not "happen so." No. indeed! MERIT quality is the result of knowledge built up by scientific research and applied by carefully trained experts. The laboratory—the finest baking laboratory in the world—which is backing up our bakery makes it possible for us to select flour with absolute knowledge and enables us to apply methods which leave nothing to guesswork

That is why MERIT is always pure, always clean, always the best bread you can buy.
